Our People

Welcome

“We believe our model and values — our structure, governance, the way we do business and work together — have fostered a culture of collegiality, a spirit of innovation, and a resilience that have been consistent throughout Cleary’s history.”

Michael Gerstenzang

Managing Partner

“We know that clients come to Cleary for elegant and creative solutions to complicated problems. I love working on those challenges and delivering above and beyond our clients’ expectations.”

Elaine Ewing

Partner, Washington, D.C.

“As members of the Washington legal community, we work to serve the public interest and help individuals and organizations in need. Our commitment runs deep, going back to our founding.”

---

Matthew C. Solomon
Partner, Washington, D.C.

“One of the most satisfying parts of practicing at Cleary is helping new lawyers enter the profession and gain confidence in their skills as top-notch attorneys.”

---

Nowell D. Bamberger

Partner, Washington, D.C.

Our People, Our Work

“After everyone got some sleep, I sent a thank you note that in so many words summed up my feelings: isn’t this exactly the kind of effort that makes Cleary Gottlieb great?”

---

Robin Bergen

Partner, Washington, D.C.

“Lawyers from every part of the firm joined in conference calls trying to figure out how to get our client through the woods. We pulled it off — but I can’t begin to imagine handling that kind of matter without Cleary Gottlieb’s teamwork. It was remarkable.”

---

Derek Bush

Partner, Washington, D.C.

“When I was a new associate, I struck up a conversation in the hallway with some lawyers who were doing antitrust work. I asked them to keep me in mind for their next project, which they did. Although I hadn’t considered becoming an antitrust lawyer, I found the work exciting, challenging, and wide-ranging — soon, I was taking on as much antitrust work as I could handle.”

---

Jeremy Calsyn

Partner, Washington, D.C

“Our lockstep culture creates a mentality that we’re all on the same team here. At this office, across offices and across practice groups, we help each other out. It’s an expectation of each Cleary lawyer, and it’s also a benefit that each lawyer realizes from his or her colleagues.”

---

Elaine Ewing

Partner, Washington, D.C.

“We all have in us the drive to help clients get things done. At Cleary, you get to see your advice being used by clients at the highest level.”

---

David I. Gelfand
Partner, Washington, D.C.

“It’s a great group of people to work with, you’re doing fascinating, cutting-edge work, and that work often involves the highest-profile issues and topics.”

---

D. Bruce Hoffman
Partner, Washington, D.C.

“Being ‘international’ isn’t just a slogan—it’s about giving clients holistic advice. Clients want to know the best way to achieve their business objectives, not just the best way to accomplish their objectives in the United States.”

---

Daniel P. Culley
Partner, Washington, D.C.

“I think people often don’t realize how broad an area antitrust law is and how international it has become... I now work on a daily basis with colleagues not just in Europe but also in China and elsewhere around the world.”

---

Leah Brannon

Partner, Washington, D.C.

Anthony D. Romero
Executive Director, ACLU

Anthony D. Romero is the executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), the nation's premier defender of civil liberties.

Anthony took the helm of the organization just seven days before the September 11, 2001 attacks. Anticipating the impending assault on civil liberties in the name of protecting national security, he quickly launched the Keep America Safe and Free campaign to protect basic freedoms. Anthony created the ACLU's National Security Project, which achieved legal
